Many students feel they are independent because they currently live on their own or because their parents no longer claim them on their income taxes. Others feel they should be considered independent because their parents refuse to provide information on the FAFSA or because their parents cannot afford to help with college expenses. However, these reasons are not sufficient for a student to be considered independent. The Financial Aid Office is required to consider parent information and expect a parental contribution for students who are not independent according to the above FAFSA definition unless exceptions are made. Exceptions are made only when adequate documentation of extenuating family circumstances exists. Extenuating circumstances are generally defined by student's inability to have contact with their parents. Review the following reasons for request for the one that describes your circumstance. If none of these circumstances apply to your situation, do not complete this form.

Personal Statement and Documentation: Attach a written personal statement (preferably typed) which completely and explicitly explains the basis of your request. Please note that your statement will be used only to determine if a dependency exception should be made and the information will be held in strictest confidence. Make sure your statement is signed and dated. Attach documentation from at least two acceptable sources, which verify all the facts of your request. Required sources of documentation to validate the reason for your request are as follows:

1) There are severe circumstances within your family preventing you from obtaining your parents' financial information.

Examples:

- an abusive home situation which is detrimental to your physical or mental well-being
- abandonment by both parents
- history of parental alcohol or drug abuse
- incarceration of the custodial parent

Required documentation: Signed statements from two adult disinterested persons, who are not family members, which verify the family circumstances described in your personal statement. Adult disinterested persons include clergy members, attorneys, school guidance counselors, medical doctors, mental health professionals, teachers or professors, law enforcement officers, professional staff of Children and Family Services (Public Assistance Department), and officers of the court. Letters must be signed originals on agency letterhead with the professional title (Counselor, Pastor, etc.).

2) The death of a parent occurred after filing the FAFSA, and the surviving parent meets one of the conditions listed above in number 1.

Required documentation: Signed statements from two adult professionals, who are not family members, which verify the family circumstances described in your personal statement. Adult professionals include clergy members, attorneys, school guidance counselors, medical doctors, mental health professionals, teachers or professors, law enforcement officers, professional staff of Children and Family Services (Public Assistance Department), and officers of the court. Letters must be signed originals on agency letterhead with the professional title (Counselor, Pastor, etc.).

3) You are a non-citizen of the United States of America (who is otherwise eligible to receive federal financial aid) and your parents currently reside in a foreign country. However, you are unable to communicate with your parents because of a long-standing political policy or civil unrest in your parents' country of residence.

Required documentation: Signed statements from the embassy or consulate of the country in which your parents live that clearly state the policies of that country or of the United States of America prevent mail and funds to be readily transferred between residents of the United States and their country. If an official government statement is not readily available, a similar statement from a refugee organization on their letterhead is acceptable. In addition, a statement from your sponsors (if applicable) or a family member verifying the level and type of support you receive from family, friends, or sponsors is required.

4) You are divorced after being married for at least two years and maintained a residence apart from you and your former spouse's parents during the time you were married. You now maintain a separate residence from your parents and pay all expenses from your own income and assets.

Required documentation: Please provide complete copies of your marriage license(s), divorce decree(s), federal tax return transcript with W-2 forms for the period in which you were married. Also include mortgage or rental agreements for the period in which you were divorced. A signed statement from both of your parents verifying amounts of financial support of any kind (other than reasonable gifts for birthdays and holidays) or the absence of such support after you married.

5) You have extenuating circumstances not described above which prevent you from having contact with your parents to obtain parental information for FAFSA filing.

Required documentation: Signed statements from three adult disinterested persons who are not family members which verify that your extenuating circumstances prevent you from having contact with your parents. Adult disinterested persons include clergy members, attorneys, school guidance counselors, medical doctors, mental health professionals, teachers or professors, law enforcement officers, professional staff of Children and Family Services (Public Assistance Department), and officers of the court. Letters must be signed originals on agency letterhead with the professional title (Counselor, Pastor, etc.).
